

The «Petit-Rhône»

Petit-Rhône meanderings

The « Petit-Rhône » is the branch of the Rhône River delta which separates two administrative regions -- Provence-Alpes-Côtes d'Azur and Languedoc-Roussillon -- between the Bouches-du-Rhône (13) and the Gard (30) departments. It also symbolizes the separation between the "Petit Camargue" (in the Gard) and the "Grand" Camargue. It leaves the Greater Rhône River north of Arles and flows into the Mediterranean Sea near Les Saintes-Maries-de-la-Mer.

The Bac du Sauvage ferry

The ferry has been crossing the Petit-Rhône since 1974 and was completely renovated in 2004. It is powered by two side paddle-wheels, and moves along a cable with no possibility of changing directions. It leaves every half hour.

A gardian's hut

The "gardian's" hut

This is the traditional residence of the Camargue cowherds or "gardians". The hut has white-washed walls and a thatched roof (made with marsh reeds). The form of these huts is original : the walls are straight except the north-west side, facing the mistral wind, which has the form of an apse (round) to better resist the wind. At the top of the apse roof there is usually a cross or a horn which was formerly used to anchor the hut to the ground on windy days.

How to get there

- Start from the Tourist Information Center at Les-Saintes-Maries-de-la-Mer, Avenue Van Gogh.

At the Tourism Office 1, follow Avenue Van Gogh (D38) on your left toward Aigues-Mortes. Go along beside the sea, the port and the arena where bull games are regularly organized. Cross the hamlet Dromar. After km 6, turn left to take the Bac du Sauvage ferry 2 (check the ferry timetable at the Tourism Office). Continue on Route D85 toward Aigues-Mortes. Cross the Peccais Canal and at the crossroads turn right on D58 toward Arles (⚠ Take care, this road is dangerous!). Cross the Sylvéréal bridge 3. 400m after the bridge turn right on the narrow road (toward S33) and go through Astouin 4. At the next crossroads turn right, then 500m later, turn left (D38b). At the Y-shaped fork, take the road to the left to Pioch-Badet 5. At the crossroads in the center of the hamlet cross Route D570 (⚠ Caution, dangerous road) and take Route D85a toward Arles-Pioch-Badet by the Cacharel Road (Route de Cacharel). For 10 kilometers you will go along beside first the Consecanière and then the Impérial ponds (étangs).

Possible alternate route through Cabanes de Cambon 6 on Route D38.
